

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES.

Scraper's Monthly will perpetuate its custom this year, of issuing a "Mid-winter Number," of peculiar beauty of illustration, and a wide range of interest. The most striking popular feature of the number will be the "Fair Barbarian," the most valuable artistic feature will be a richly illustrated paper on one of the most remarkable of American artists, John La Farge. This will, indeed, be the first fully illustrated study of a painter who is widely known both at home and abroad, and whose work has ranged over many fields of art—illustration, the painting of flowers, landscape, and historical subjects and church decoration.

Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine for February is received. This is the second number of the ninth volume of this excellent periodical, which is now conducted, we see, by the Rev. A. Fred Taylor, an experienced correspondent and editor. The former editor of The Sunday Magazine, Rev. Dr. Dooms, will, it is announced, be henceforth a regular contributor, and other attractive features have been added which will increase its already great popularity. The present number is literally crowded with good things. It contains 128 quarto pages and over 100 illustrations, $3 a year; single copy, 25 cents—post-paid. Frank Leslie's Publishing House, 55, 56 and 57 Park place, N. Y.

The two Maryville papers—the Republican and the Democrat—are now both publishing Dailies. Of course, they don't pay, for it takes money and a good deal of it, to keep up a daily paper; and the Republican has already found that Maryville does not demand so many papers and that so far from benefiting the town they are a burden to the community. In a recent issue it has the following sensible remarks on the subject, every word of which is true: "But too many newspapers are a burden, not so much to publishers as to the public. Newspapers are essential, but they have to be supported. A merchant that has to advertise in four or five papers when one or two would do as well, is the man that loses money. Then it is not to the interest of the public to encourage too many newspapers. To a paper well established and ably managed, competition of weaker competitors is but little felt, but the people have to pay for it. If the public could be brought to consider this fact more, we would have fewer newspapers. It is better for a town to have one newspaper well supported and ably managed than a half dozen that take out a miserable existence, so credit to the owners or to the community. No publisher who has the ability and any energy or pride, would give a poor paper to a community who supported him liberally. When a place or a county has more newspapers than there is a demand for, these papers become a burden instead of a benefit upon the community."

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat says Senator Blaine's bill to increase the number of Supreme Court Judges to thirteen ought to pass, with a provision that at no time shall more than eleven of the thirteen be Ohio men. We must draw the line somewhere.

The Bolekew Herald says: "Dr. W. E. Burton and family have returned from a holiday visit to friends and relatives in Holt county. The Doctor reports that diphtheria has caused considerable distress in Holt and in many cases, proved fatal. We are glad to find the Doctor with better health than usual and he states he is better prepared for an active practice than for considerable time past."

It is with unalloyed pleasure we place on our exchange list the Turkio Blade, published at the new town of Turkio, in Atchison county—the first number of which is before us. When we state that the editor of the Blade, is our old friend Muggins A. Koles, formerly of the Rock Port Mail, the cause of our pleasure at once will be apparent to all who ever saw the paper during the time Mr. K. controlled it. The peculiar and original ideas of Mr. K. on the subject of orthography have given him a reputation extending over several States; and we observe that he intends to maintain this reputation, as is shown by the following opening sentence in his salutatory: "No 1 Vol. 1 of the Turkio Blade is now before you, and asks of all creeds and parties, however scrupulous or whimsical, to give it a liberal patronage."

We most heartily unite with the Blade in urging the people of that section not to be "scrupulous or whimsical." They will be unjust to themselves if they do. Every constant reader of the Blade will save several doctor's bills in the course of the year.

The people of Andrew county are just now enjoying a decided sensation. The late County Treasurer is Rev. W. M. Sapp, a minister of the M. E. church, well known throughout north-west Missouri. A new treasurer was elected in November, and a few days ago when Rev. Sapp came to turn over the county funds he was nearly five thousand dollars short. Therefore he hastily packed his carpet sack and absconded. And that's what all the trouble is about.

WHEELMAN'S EQUUS

Bigelow.
We believe in amusements—cheer, checkers, backgammon, literary societies and dramatics, are the orders of the day—more especially of the night. And since the recent snow fall we intersperse with a little sleigh-riding. Quite a crowd of our gay and happy youngsters "sleigh" over to Mound City to church on last Sunday evening; also on Monday evening to a temperance lecture.

Quite a fine lot of hogs were driven into town for shipment last Monday.

Buck Comer, after a rest of a week or two out of the drug store has taken a position behind the counter in the house of Fleming & Co. and with scissors in hand stands ready to wait upon the customers of that house. After so long a time in the drug business, the dry goods business will be a little awkward—he says he can "pour it out quick" or than he can cut it off.

Bigelow contains two dry goods stores—Fleming & Frazer, and Bell & Co. Two drug stores, Muir & Campbell and Ed. Amal. One confectionery and restaurant, by James White. Two millinery and dress-making shops—Mrs. Hinkle and Mrs. Foster & Miss Jennie Smith. One blacksmith shop, C. H. Graves. One school house, one neat church, two carpenter shops. The citizens are industrious and frugal; in consequence of which they are getting along well—the business portion making money.

We have no regular church service, but a prosperous Sunday school under the superintendency of R. P. Lewis, who has recently furnished the school with an excellent library of reading matter. The section "Rose" on this section keeps no "hands" this winter, but merely watches the track himself and when a rail wants fixing or replacing he hires some one to help him.

Triumph.
Health of the neighborhood is good, except Mrs. John Hodgson and Mrs. Samuel Nowland, who have been confined to their beds for several months. Miss Alice Merritt is visiting the family of Michael Deloit.

H. E. Denny and Mrs. Hodgson are visiting the country of their childhood days, Salem, Ind. Would caution adjoining neighbors to be careful of their stock, as three men were seen to pass in this vicinity at two o'clock Saturday morning with a load of bread a piece under their arms. Also about the same time, B. O. Denny ran out and jumped the front fence, knocked down two panels of fence and scared all the stock from the place. It's a girl, squeals soprano and weighs considerable. Also, Tillie Nowland on the 12th cleared the fence with-out damage. It's a boy and loves its pa and ma. Misfortune crossed the path of Michael Cochran on the 12th inst.; one of his horses fell dead in the harness.

King Grove.
The New Sentinel, or THE COUNTY PAPER, comes to us enlarged and much improved in general appearance. It is indeed a Daisy, and we hope it will receive the patronage it so justly merits. Scarlet fever has made its appearance in our midst. One of Mr. Zeller's children is very sick with it now.

Mr. John Moore of Colorado if spending the winter with his brother-in-law, John L. Grigsby.

Ye renters are, many of them, becoming very uneasy in regard to a home for the next year. Rents have advanced about 25 per cent on farms in this vicinity and they are very scarce.

Farmers are reporting stock hogs for sale, and by the way, that reminds me that all along or near the county line, suffer great injustice from the law, or rather from not having it. If our hogs happen to go through a two wire fence into Nodaway county, they are popped into somebody's pen and away goes your ten to twenty-five cents a head to recover them.

Union.
The general health of the neighborhood is tolerably good at present; several are suffering from severe colds and sore throat.

Mr. John Cottier of Minnesota Valley visited relatives here last week.

Mrs. Charles Keller has returned from Hot Springs, Ark., much improved in health.

Mr. James Cottier and wife are expected to return from Winchester, Ind., next week.

Married at the residence of Rev. B. W. Wiers, in Nickels Grove, Jan. 13, 1881, Mr. John Donovan to Miss Martha Keller, all of Holt county. (No cards, no wedding and no body's business.)

The latest event of note was a dinner given last Saturday by John Curtis and wife. At an early hour their house was well filled with their many friends and relatives; the hours were pleasantly passed in social conversation; music was furnished by several present. At 12 o'clock dinner was announced and all partook of a sumptuous repast. Mrs. Curtis and her amiable daughters deserve much credit for the style in which the dinner was prepared. We noticed the following persons present: T. B. Curtis and wife; James Curtis and wife, N. B. Lewis and wife, C. O. Proud and wife, Thos. Cottier and wife, Mrs. M. Mayer, Mrs. C. Irwin, Mrs. E. Kennedy, Mrs. E. Evans, Mr. Swain and wife, C. E. Gibson and wife, J. E. Meyer and wife, Q. T. Curtis and wife and the Misses Lou Mingus, Bessie Meyer, Hannah Meyer, Allie Dulin, Emma and Lizzie Cottier, and the Messrs. J. W. Kennedy, R. O. Plummer, J. E. Evans, J. C. Menifee. X. Y. Z.

Publishing Saloon Petitions.

EDITOR COUNTY PAPER:
As the question of licensing saloons is now agitating the people of several localities in Holt county, I wish to make a suggestion on the subject.

Down at Richmond, this State, the names of the petitioners for a saloon license are published so that the people may see that a majority pray (?) for this kind of an institution.

The county court of Grundy county makes the same requirement. Before Clay county discontinued the license system, the petitions were required to be published three or four weeks in the Tribune before the county court would consider them. This is the practice in many counties in this State where license is granted, and even where no opposition is made to it. I am clear enough that every county court should make the same rule. Petitions ought to contain the names of parties who never signed them, and of persons who do not reside in the community. When they are published every one can see who signs, and if a man's name has been placed on a petition without authority he has the information that will give him a chance to have it stricken off. Besides, when all see these names those who may only know that certain signers are disqualified are informed that an imposition is about to be performed, and they can impart the information to those who are resisting the granting of the license. No man should want, or have, a license unless he is legally entitled to it, and therefore the applicant cannot object to publication of the petition. The signers cannot object to it, for they should not be ashamed to let the public know the fact that they have signed.

ANTI LICENSE.
An Editor's Life.
The editor of the Columbia, (I. L.) Voice, being about to remove his paper to another town, thus has his mind: "One of the beauties and charms of an editor's life is his dead-beating it on all occasions. No one who has never tasted of the sweets of that bliss can begin to take in its glory and its happiness. He does one hundred dollars worth of advertising for a railroad, gets a pass for a year, rides twenty-five dollars worth, and then is looked upon as a dead beat. He 'puffs' a concert ten dollars worth and gets one dollar in 'complimentaries,' and is thus passed 'free.' If the hall is crowded he is begrudged the room he occupies, for if his complimentaries were paying tickets the troupe would be so much more in pocket. He blows and puffs a church festival to any desired extent, and does the post printing at half rates, and rarely gets a 'thank you' for it. He does more work gratuitously for his town and community than all the rest of the population put together, and gets cursed for it all while in many instances a man who donates a few dollars for the Fourth of July, base ball club or church is gratefully remembered. Old it is a sweet thing to be an editor. He passes 'free' you know."

WM. EVERHART
wishes to inform the public that he will furnish outfits of Furniture to those who may need them, cheaper than any house this side of Chicago, Kansas City or St. Joseph. He means just what he says and asks every one to call and be convinced by examining his stock and learning his prices.

Farm for Sale.
I desire to sell my farm of 130 acres; 70 acres in tame grass, balance under cultivation. Good well and cistern; plenty of stock water; abundance of timber; young orchard of 250 bearing trees; one-and-a-half miles Southeast of New Point. Call on or address M. S. Mollie, New Point, Holt county, Mo.

Final Settlement.
All creditors and others interested in the estate of Thomas January, deceased, are notified that it is the wish of the undersigned, administrator of said estate, to make a final settlement of said estate at the next term of the Probate Court of Holt county, Missouri, to be begun and holden at Oregon, in said county and State aforesaid, on the 14th day of February, 1881.

How Not to Do It.
A millionaire, who has made every dollar of his fortune by advertising, offers, on retiring from business, this bit of advice gratis to those he leaves struggling behind while he starts for Europe to enjoy life: "The fault of the ordinary advertiser is this: he goes in for a lot, and while the fit is on him he will pay money to any journal he may fall across. My and by the way, he goes in and the advertiser finds that he has spent three times as many dollars as he meant to, and as there are no replies to his advertising, he thinks the specialty he has been trying to introduce has fallen flat on the public taste, or business has become dull, and he fancies buyers are few and his likely to pay attention to his announcements. He stops short, accordingly, and loses nearly all the benefit of his previous expenditures. The success reaped by those whose advertisements appear every year should teach men of business first to be careful in the selection of the medium they choose, and next, when satisfied on this point, to persevere, disregarding apparent failure, and never retrenching expenditure when business is dull, as that is the time when advertising is most necessary."

Safe, reliable, harmless and cheap is Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. We therefore do not wonder at the popularity of this old family medicine. The price is only 25 cents a bottle.

Kindling With Coal Oil.
We had something to say in our last issue about the evils of kindling fires with coal oil. The subject is further illuminated by the following sketch of a little occurrence in St. Joseph, which we clip from the Western News of Saturday:

"P-h-e-e—bang!" "Oh, Lord, I'm kilt!" is about the kind of racket that fell upon the ear of a Twelfth street citizen at 5:30 the other morning. It came from the direction of the kitchen, and never once thinking of the hired girl's modesty, he sprang out of bed and darted down into the kitchen, about as near undressed as man ever gets to be for ordinary sleeping purposes. He rushed through the kitchen door and exclaimed: "What in the devil's the matter?"

The hired girl stood leaning against the wall, and that citizen could have easily taken hold of the lower end of his white linen garment and made a black mark upon her face. She was as pale as boarding-house butter.

"I am gone," she said.

"Yes! see! coal oil!" said the citizen, apparently very much unconcerned, since he saw there was no immediate danger of the house being blown up.

The girl denied it stoutly. She said she was blowing in the stove to make the fire burn, when a whiff of wind came down the chimney, causing the explosion, and left her head and face minus bangs, eyebrows and eyelashes. It was no use, though; a coal oil lamp sat on the kitchen table and the top was off; there was also an unmistakable odor about the room, and in the language of that citizen, "it was too dam thin"—the lamp and the odor gave the whole thing "dead away." The hired girl was to have gone to a ball that night, but she didn't—she had one at home, alone, and when the family physician told her that in all probability she would never have any more hair on those places which had been burned, it almost broke her heart.

She will never use coal oil for that purpose again, and will not be able to greet any of her nice young gentlemen acquaintances for several weeks to come.

George Elliot's Romola.
A timely interest is given, by the death of the author, to the new edition of her masterpiece, "Romola," just issued by the American Book Exchange, New York. It shows her work at its best and strongest, and at the same time gives the reader an opportunity to acquire a lasting familiarity with the scenes and society of mediæval Italy. It is one of the few really great historical novels of the world. It is issued in handy and beautiful form, extra cloth binding, simple but rare elegance and taste in design, and like the other issues of the "Literary Revolution" its cost is almost nominal, viz. 35 cents. It is one of a series intended to form a library of classic fictions, which will include one representative and characteristic work of each of the great authors who have won lasting fame in the realm of fiction. Life is too short and too full of work to permit the reading of all that is beautiful and valuable in these creations of the imagination, but even very busy people can find time to read one book by each of the score of authors who have won immortal fame and place in the affection of the people. Not to be acquainted with them is to be ignorant of much that is most important and most interesting in the history of nations and of men. Not to possess them is to be deprived of most fruitful and profitable sources of enjoyment.

Among those issued or nearly ready are: Scott's "Ivanhoe," Bulwer's "Pompeii," Irving's "Knickerbocker," Cooper's "Mohicans," "Tom Brown at Rugby," "Adventures of Don Quixote" and "Larda, a Romance of Ancient Egypt." Full catalogue of standard publications will be sent on request, by the American Book Exchange, Tribune buildings, New York.

The Growth of the Farmer's Alliance.
This new farmer's movement is attracting wide spread attention among farmers both East and West. The Publisher of The Western Rural has secured the organization of a national Alliance which through its Secretary is sending out hundreds of charters authorizing the organizations of local Alliances in all parts of the country. For full particulars about the movement send for free copy of The Western Rural, Chicago. The Rural is boldly advocating measures for the purpose of preventing the adulteration of the food products of our country. This adulteration is not only fraudulent, but is threatening the health of our people, and is destructive to legitimate production and trade. The Rural expects to accomplish this together with other reforms which will be of great benefit to agriculture, through this organized effort.

Brown's Peppin Tonic.
Cures Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Sickheadache. You have only to try it to prove it. It furnishes the stomach with Peppin, Rhubarb, Mandrake and Gentian, the natural principles of digestion. No remedy ever offered to the public has relieved so much suffering as this wonderful Preparation.

Mrs. M. J. Brown, Fairmont, Kas., says: "I had Dyspepsia, for ten years, and have been cured by using two bottles of Brown's Peppin Tonic, after trying a dozen doctors."

A. O. Butler, Rockville, Mo., writes: "You have my thanks for a life saved by this Wonderful Remedy. I commenced improving after taking the third dose; its effect on the stomach, liver and bowels, was almost magical."

E. B. Ball, Hittville, Kansas, says: "Please send me by Express One Gross of Brown's Peppin Tonic. It exceeds all other remedies for dyspepsia ever sold in this community. I cannot keep store without it."

Answer This.
Did you ever know any person to be ill without infection of the Stomach, Liver or Kidneys, or did you ever know one who was well when either was obstructed or inactive; and did you ever know or hear of any case of the kind that Hop Bitters would not cure? Ask your neighbors this same question.

THE NEW YORK
EVENING POST,
In its 81st Year.

The character and objects of the Evening Post are so well known, that it would be enough, as a prospectus, to the coming year, merely, to announce that it will endeavor to maintain its position as the leading evening journal of the city of New York, but its proprietors hope, by renewed energy and enterprise, to render it still more worthy of the generous support which it has hitherto received from the public.

1. The Evening Post, for more than fifty years, has been devoted to that theory of politics on which our institutions are built, and which regards the government as the organ and representative of the whole community, and not of any class. By the fundamental law of its corporate organization it is bound to contend for the decentralization of power, for freedom of exchange in trade, for just and impartial taxation, for a sound, hard-money currency, for economy and purity of administration, and for a reformed civil service, and to these principles it will continue to give an earnest, enlightened and unflinching support.

2. In 1854 it took an active part in the formation of the Republican Party, to the measures and candidates of which it has since generally adhered; but it is no senseless slave of any party organization. It holds that the highest duty of a good journal is to the community at large, and to parties only as they are subservient to the general good.

3. But the chief aim of the proprietors of the Evening Post is to render it a first-class family newspaper, which shall not only provide the latest and fullest news of each day, but lend a special aid to all the best elements of civilization, to Literature, to Science, to Art, to Education, and to Innocent Amusements.

4. Every Saturday, to accommodate our advertisers, who are more numerous than those of any other New York daily journal except the Herald, we publish a supplement, which contains tales, poems, correspondence, extracts and miscellanies of various kinds, and which is intended to anticipate the Sunday editions of the morning paper, is furnished to our subscribers without increase of price.

5. The best things of our daily edition are specially prepared for our Semi-Weekly and Weekly editions, which supply to country readers of the news, with an abundance of other matter, up to the date of their date. We do not believe that any better paper for country reading are issued from the city of New York.

Trustee's Sale.
Whereas by Deed of Trust dated the 10th day of April 1880, and recorded in the Recorder's office of Holt county, Mo., in Book 33, at page 17, T. Benjamin Jones and Hannah Jones, conveyed to Jacob Kinney, as trustee, the following described real estate, lying and being in the county of Holt and State of Missouri to-wit:

All of lot 12 in block 34, as designated in the Plat of Mound City.

Which said Deed of Trust was made to secure the payment of a certain debt in said Trust Deed mentioned and described, and whereas said debt is due and unpaid, and whereas, Jacob Kinney refuses to act as such trustee as aforesaid; and whereas it is provided in said Deed of Trust that in case of his refusal, death, refusal to act, or absence, the trustee, or his heirs, assigns, or assigns, should and lawfully may, and do sell the property hereinbefore described.

Now, therefore, in order to give effect to said Deed of Trust, and by virtue of the power thereto contained, the undersigned, trustee, will sell at the right title, interest and claim of the said T. Benjamin Jones, in and to the above real estate aforesaid, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash at the Court House door in the City of Oregon, Holt county, Mo., between the hours of 10 o'clock in the forenoon and five o'clock in the afternoon on

TUESDAY, JANUARY 28, 1881,

And is not surpassed for News, Business Reports, Literary and Select Reading
A FREE PRIZE BOOK TO EACH YEARLY SUBSCRIBER.

Though mindful of the extraordinarily low rates at which the DOLLAR WEEKLY COMMERCIAL is published, and the increasing cost of the production of first-class newspapers, we are so appreciative of the reading of those of singular appreciation that we offer to all persons who send us a dollar each in advance for our Weekly (four), including of course, and particularly, the renewal of all subscribers, no matter when expiring, for the additional period of one year as follows:

Each person sending us one dollar, will receive the Dollar Weekly Commercial one year and the expressed matter sent in the following list of books, and a free of all cost—the books being HARRIS'S Edisons, Cassidors, beautifully printed on good paper, in paper covers.

1. "The Story of the Celebrated Boy," which made Charlotte Brontë's fame, the most fascinating of his romances.

2. "The Last Days of Pompeii," Bulwer's historical romance of universal popularity, the most fascinating of his romances.

3. "John Halifax Gentleman," Miss Mulock's masterpiece; a story of the sorrows and triumphs associated with low birth and iron fortune.

4. "The Red Rover," Captain of the Pickwick Club, the work that gave Charles Dickens his celebrity; the most humorous and always the most popular of his books.

5. "The History of a Crime," by Victor Hugo. The terrible narrative by the great French poet, novelist and historian of the Crime of Louis Napoleon in slaughtering the liberties of his country.

6. "Henry Esmond," A Novel, by Wm. M. Thackeray—the most artistic, popular and characteristic of the works of the wisest novelist of this time.

7. "Edison," by Alexander William Kinsley. One of the most clear and interesting narratives ever written; full of pictures of life in the field including admirable accounts of personal experiences in Egypt and the Holy Land.

8. "Journal of the Plague in London," by Daniel Defoe, author of "Robinson Crusoe." The true history, by one of the most distinguished writers in our language, of the plague and awful visitation of the Plague in England.

9. "Poems of Wordsworth," chosen and edited by Mathew Arnold. The most popular and select edition of the works of one of England's greatest poets, whose writings are their celebrity largely to the excellent understanding they display of the sentiment and scenery of country life.

10. Three Volumes "English Men of Letters" (in one volume), Robert Burns, 2. Oliver Goldsmith, 3. John Bunyan. Of these volumes the first is by James A. Froude, the distinguished historian. No more charming book than the three marvelous biographies make up has been issued in modern times.

11. "Edison," by Lord Selous—The latest literary sensation in England and America, now issued in a larger and more complete edition than ever known, the late Premier selling $75,000.00 for the MS. It is sparkling and picturesque—a history of a great man.

It will be seen that these books comprise a wide range and striking diversity of the most brilliant and pleasing productions of modern authors, including Science, Poetry, Biography and History—the variety in selecting his favorite book for a FREE PRIZE.

TO AGENTS.
We allow a cash commission of ten per cent. to Agents on each yearly subscription to the Dollar Weekly Commercial sent to us. In forwarding subscriptions Agents will please be careful to always give full Name, Postoffice, County and State of the subscriber, and to state which premium book the subscriber selects.

If the Agent prefers a free Book to a Cash Subscription, he may, for each yearly subscription sent to us, select one free book from the above list for himself—in this instance the free book selected by the subscriber.

Without reference to the choice of Club Agent, each yearly subscriber who pays $1 is entitled to a free book.

The price books must in all cases be sent with the time the subscription is sent.

Terms—Cash in advance. Specimen Copies free.
